Paris, 28 June 2018 – Sopra Steria, European leader in digital transformation, has once again achieved 2nd place in the Truffle 100 rankings, which recognises the key players in French software publishing.

With more than 40 years' experience, software publishing is one of Sopra Steria's key areas of focus, particularly in terms of the Cloud, a genuine stimulus for businesses' digital revolution.

"We are thrilled to appear second once again this year in the Truffle 100, which is a real benchmark in our software industry. This market recognition confirms the effectiveness of our strategy, through which we strive to continuously develop our high-quality software solutions - particularly through the Cloud and SaaS - in order to support our customers in making their digital transformations a success", says Vincent Paris, Sopra Steria Managing Director.

Sopra Steria designs and implements high-performing application solutions that all occupy leading positions in their respective markets, helping customers excel in three key domains:
