Sopra Steria plans to acquire German firm it-economics

Paris, 15 May 2018 – Sopra Steria (Euronext Paris: SOP), a European leader in digital transformation, today announced its plans to acquire it-economics, a German IT consulting firm.

Sopra Steria plans to acquire 100% of the share capital of it-economics, a German consulting firm. Specialising in digital transformation, agile development, cloud services and the management of complex large scale enterprise IT projects, it-economics has successfully established long-term trusted advisor relationships with a strong base of large enterprise accounts in the banking, insurance and utilities verticals.

The acquisition would bolster Sopra Steria's position in Germany by enriching its end-to-end capacities in consulting and software development while strengthening its relations with major key accounts in the Group's strategic vertical markets.

it-economics was founded in 2003 and generated in 2017 double-digit organic growth and an estimated revenue of about €20 million.

The proposed acquisition is subject to customary closing conditions. If it is completed successfully, Sopra Steria could consolidate it-economics in its accounts in the second half of 2018.
