Sopra Group reinforces its presence in the Italian banking sector

Sopra Group, a leader in the European consulting and IT services market, announces the acquisition of the Italian company Methosystem, thus reinforcing its presence in the Italian banking sector.

Methosystem designs and implements traditional systems integration projects, developing software solutions that streamline the migration and fusion of data between financial institutions.

Methosystem, which employs 80 staff in Parma and Milan, generated revenue above €5 million in 2006.

As a longstanding partner of the banking sector in Europe, Sopra Group generates 30% of its revenue in this field and proposes a range of dedicated solutions for loans, smartcards and financial reporting. The Group's Financial Services division provides support for banks both in their European business development and with regard to regulatory changes. Sopra Group's revenue was €897.7 million for the year ended 31 December 2006, with Italy contributing €20.5 million to this figure.

Jean-Paul Bourbon, Director of Sopra Group's Financial Services division commented: "This acquisition dovetails with the Group's strategy: it bolsters Sopra Group's European presence in the banking sector, while also enhancing its capacity to support its clients' business development in Italy".

Mauro Fiorilli, Director of Sopra Group in Italy added: "This project will help us achieve our ambition of becoming one of the foremost partners of Italian banks, with a high value-added range of services and total solutions".

Methosystem will be consolidated as of 1 July 2007.
