

Sopra Group: Recruitment for 2500 jobs in 2013, 1600 in France

After an excellent performance in 2012, Sopra Group continues to expand and has announced an extensive recruitment campaign for 2013.

8 March 2013 – Sopra Group, a major player in consulting, technological services and software publishing in Europe, has announced an ambitious recruitment plan for 2013. In fact, 2500 new staff are expected to join the Group in 2013, 1600 in France. The Group will also be taking on 600 interns at the end of their internships.

The people to be hired will be young Ph-level graduates (from universities and major engineering and business schools), as well as more experienced profiles. There are vacancies to be filled in all the Group's activities: consulting, technological services and software publishing. Future members of staff will take part in large projects in sectors as varied as banking/insurance, services and utilities, the public sector, telecoms & media and industry. In France, the jobs will be based in Paris and major cities in the provinces.

Recognised for its level of excellence and its sense of commitment, Sopra Group is looking for experts in specific sectors and/or technological experts: consultants, software engineers, business analysts, project managers, project directors and systems architects, etc..

All the staff joining the Group will be able further develop their skills and careers. In fact, Sopra Group's aim is to integrate the most talented people and help them to progress throughout their professional lives by offering them the widest possible range of training opportunities and career choices.

"Sopra Group is proactively seeking high growth and stepping up its position with major accounts, irrespective of the sector of activity. We are therefore confident in the outlook for 2013 which calls for a high level of recruitment in order to support this growth", concluded Fabrice Losson, Recruitment Manager at Sopra Group.
